ENGLISH PESSIMISTIC ON LIPTON'S CHANCES

Yachting Men Don't Think Shamrock IV. Looks Like Cup Lifter.

NICHOLSON IS DOWNCAST

Belief Expressed That Shamrock III. Was Held Back in the Trials.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, July 9.- English yachtsmen who were at first inclined to be optimistle in regard to the chances of Shamrock IV. as a cup lifter are not so sanguine now that they have had an opportunity to analyze her trials with Shamrock III.

In yachting circles there is a decided feeling of pessimism, which has been caused to a considerable extent by the belief that the reports in the English papers have been largely influenced by the natural characteristic of superoptimism of Sir Thomas Lipton, with whom the wish is father to the thought.

A friend of Capt. Burton's, the amateur skipper of Shamrock IV., and Designer Nicholson, who talked intimately with them, told the correspondent of THE SUN o-day that neither of these experts seemed to be overconfident of victory. Mr. Nicholson was naturally hopeful of success, but explained that it was the first attempt to build a challenger according to American rules. He added : "After all, he Americans have had great experience in this sort of thing and it is a question whether or not we have approached them n this kind of designing as yet." The question has also been raised as o whether or not the slowness of Shamock III. as compared with the challenger has been purposely exaggerated. The correspondent of THE SUN finds decided impression in yachting circles to this effect. It seemed strange to many yachtsmen that Capt. Sycamore was not permitted to race Shamrock III. against the challenger. It is known that there was considerable feeling on the part of Capt. Sycamore because Mr. Burton was selected to sail the challenger. It was thought, therefore, that Capt. Sycamore would get every inch out of

Shamrock III. in the trials. It was also known that unless the challenger made a most excellent showing against Shamrock III. it would have broken Lipton's heart. For this reason there is no overwhelming confidence in the value of the Meanwhile public confidence in the challenger seems to have grown steadily and even many Americans in the hotels may be heard saying that they will not be sorry if Sir Thomas at last succeeds.
